...2 University Students Die As Autos Hit

NEW MEADOWS, Nov. 25 (AP)—Two University of Idaho students, driving home for Thanksgiving, were killed shortly before midnight yesterday when their car collided headon with another auto 13 miles north of New Meadows on U. S. 95.

Sheriff Frank Yantis identified them as Murray (Muddy) Numbers, 24, McCall, and Frank Pagonga, 24, Boise.

Numbers was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Don Numbers, and was a noted young skier.

The driver of the second car, Lorenzo Yeoman, 21, Wieppe, a recently discharged soldier, incurred multiple fractures and was in a serious condition at the Council hospital.

Yantis said the car driven by Numbers rounded a curve and apparently went out of control, pulling over into the path of Yeoman's car just before the collision.

Numbers was a member of the University of Idaho ski team and had won slalom and downhill titles in Pacific Coast Northern division ...

...England Raps ... Imprisonment Of Americans

LONDON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Britain officially denounced today red China's imprisonment of 13 Americans on trumped up spy charges.

Red China's Peiping radio, meanwhile, trumpeted new "charges" about "American spies." It quoted the Peiping Peoples Daily as declaring editorially:

Cite "Severe Blow"

"The fact so many air-dropped spies have been caught on China's mainland is a severe blow to the schemes of the American aggressive clique.

"The depositions of the captured American spies and the material evidence have fully exposed the criminal schemes of the U. S. aggressive clique against the Chinese people."

Britain Hits Reds

A British foreign office spokesman said Britain regards red China's action as a violation of the Geneva convention on treatment of war prisoners.

"The arguments put forward by the Chinese government to justify different treatment for these men is nothing more than a legal quibble," the spokesman said. "Our future course of action will naturally depend on what request if any is made by the United States government."

Idaho Enjoys Crisp, Sunny Thanksgiving

By United Press

A crisp but sunny day added just the proper touch to this Thanksgiving holiday in the Gem state.

All schools were closed—many of them until Monday—and employes at government offices and most business places were enjoying a day off.

Church services were held throughout the state.

In Boise, all churches were participating in special services. Religious services also were conducted at the state prison, and inmates were to sit down to a turkey dinner.

Gov. and Mrs. Len Jordan spent the day at home with their youngest son, Steve, and some of his University of Idaho friends.

TROOPS REPORTED

TAIPEI, Formosa, Nov. 25 (AP)—Taipeh press reports today quoted Nationalist Defense Minister Yu Ta-wei as saying the Chinese reds have massed more than half a million men in the coastal areas of Chekiang and Fukien provinces and are preparing to invade off-shore nationalist outposts.

Eisenhower's Day Calls for "Work, Play"

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 25 (UP)—President Eisenhower arranged for a Thanksgiving day of work and play today topped off with a traditional American dinner of turkey with all the fixin's.

He planned to step over from the little White House, "Mamie's cabin," to a special office in the main clubhouse of the Augusta National Golf club this morning to take care of some paper work he brought with him from Washington.

Schedules Golf

Next on the schedule was 18 holes of golf on the famed course where the Masters tournament is held each spring.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower had ordered up a turkey dinner for British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and other guests who flew here yesterday with Mrs. Eisenhower from the presidential plane Columbine III, a super Constellation.

Due for Return Monday

The President was scheduled to return to Washington Monday.

Mr. Eisenhower brought with him three golfing and bridge-playing companions and their wives. They were retired Gen. and Mrs. Thomas Belahe, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. George E. Allen, Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Slater, New York.

Likes to Walk

Montgomery said he had not played golf for years but liked the idea of walking around the course. He was scheduled to return to Washington aboard the presidential plane tomorrow to confer with the joint-chiefs-of-staff before going to the west coast on a brief trip.

There was a possibility that President Eisenhower would get a personal briefing from Charles E. Bohlen, ambassador to Russia, during the week-end. Bohlen, back in this country for high-level conferences, was visiting a sister at nearby Aiken, S. C.

South Blasts 'Integration' Plan for U. S.

ATLANTA, Nov. 25 (AP)—A new barrage of protests was fired in the deep south today on the justice department's proposal that lower courts supervise integration in schools.

Gov.-elect Marvin Griffin, Georgia, charged that the Eisenhower administration is "attempting to operate the schools" through the justice department.

Power Lies With States

He said the power to operate public schools lies with the states and that any interpretation of the U. S. Constitution that would give those powers to the federal government is "usurpation of power and, in my opinion, is tyranny."

Griffin, who succeeds Gov. Herman Talmadge in January, said President Eisenhower "through (Atty. Gen. Herbert) Brownell is attempting to operate the schools in the several states."

Proposes Adaption

Mississippi's Gov. Hugh White said the new action makes it more inevitable that his state should adopt a proposed constitutional amendment next month that would allow the public school system to be abolished in favor of private schools as a means of maintaining segregation.

Talmadge said the proposal shows "those people are finally waking up and taking local fight into consideration. Talmadge reiterated that segregation will not be ended in Georgia at any time."

Program Held For Students

A student body assembly was held at Twin Falls Business college Wednesday with the Rev. W. A. MacArthur as guest speaker. The theme of his talk was Thanksgiving.

Classes were dismissed Wednesday afternoon. No school will be held Friday.

Students, faculty and partners participated in a dinner at the Turf club Tuesday evening. Larled Montgomery sang several numbers and students of the Merle Stoddard Dancing school entertained with several routines. After the dinner and program the evening was spent in dancing.

Lynne Maykuth, student body president, C. O. (Buddy) Cox and Delores Durfee were in charge of arrangements.

Better speech week was concluded this week at the college. The purpose is to bring to the attention of each students any error made in not speaking correctly during the week.

Special class work and drills were given to help students get the habit of good speech. Sterling C. Larson, manager, stressed that proper speech is an important part of business training. Good or bad first impressions are often formed through observance or violation of good speech.

Public Dam Group To Fight FPC Nod To Private Power

BOISE, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Idaho-Oregon-Washington Hells Canyon association says it will continue to press for a high federal dam on the Snake river between Idaho and Oregon, despite the "temporary setback" of an adverse opinion by the legal department of the federal power commission.

George H. R. Taylor, the association's secretary—treasurer, criticized John C. Mason, FPC staff counsel, in a statement yesterday, after Mason recommended that the commission authorize three private dams proposed for the river by the Idaho Power company.

Meanwhile, Idaho Power company representatives said they would have no further comment to make. Gov. Len Jordan, a foe of the high federal dam, and Governor-elect Robert E. Smylie, also declined comment.

Taylor said that Mason's idea of comprehensive river resources development appears to be a limited one, "derived from the needs of a private utility's service area rather than that of the region and nation."

He said, Mason "seems to have been silent" on the question of whether the federal dam would not provide a greater range of benefits from power generation, flood control and reclamation."

His argument, therefore, is one which would accept any offer of development by a private company if that company can demonstrate that it can proceed with it," Taylor said, "regardless of provisions of the federal power act."

WASHINGTON, Nov 25 (AP)—The federal power commission's legal department recommended yesterday that three private power dams be authorized in the Hells canyon reach of the Snake river instead of one big federal dam.

John C. Mason, FPC staff counsel, recommended licenses be issued to Idaho Power company for dams which would flood the site of the proposed federal Hells canyon dam in the river along the Idaho-Oregon border.

His position in the long legal fight over the dam site was stated in a brief filed with the FPC and with Examiner William J. Costello who will rule on whether Idaho Power's license applications should be granted.

Idaho Power also submitted a 152-page brief supporting its application for the three dams it said would—at no cost to the taxpayers—more completely harness the Snake than would the federal Hells canyon dam.

The National Hells Canyon association and other public power proponents opposing Idaho Power were expected to file their briefs in the mails last night.

Various public power groups have proposed that the government build the Hells canyon dam. Congress has considered the project, but has yet to authorize it. Mason said in his brief that the FPC and the examiner, in deciding whether Idaho Power should be permitted to build

Solon Assails FPC Attorney On Dam Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse today attacked a federal power commission lawyer's recommendation for private development of Hells canyon water power, saying it fits in with Eisenhower administration proposals for "a giveaway of the people's power resources to private combines."

The Oregon independent said the FPC is "stacked" and he expressed no surprise at Commission Counsel John C. Mason's arguments that the Idaho Power company—and not the federal government—handle power and water development in the Hells Canyon on the Idaho-Oregon border.

The power company, a privately-owned utility, won the first round in the politically explosive fight to see who will develop the Hells canyon dam. Mason filed his opinion yesterday, [illegible] the highest [illegible] Reply [illegible] Commission on Jan. 5.

Then the hearing examiner, William J. Costello, must make a recommendation to the commission, and the commission itself must make a decision. Mason's view is the first formal endorsement of the private project by a government official—undoubtedly will carry weight with both Costello and the commission.

Probe in Gas ... Not Finished During Talks

BOISE, Nov. 25 (AP)—The state public utilities commission called a holiday recess last night in the natural gas distribution hearings after failing in a two-hour night session to complete the lengthy testimony.

It will meet again Friday morning to resume cross-examination of William H. Nix, an engineering consultant for the Pocatello Natural Gas company, the last witness of three firms seeking the right to distribute natural gas in southern Idaho.

Attorneys had hoped to wind up the hearings last night, but a hitch developed when the Pocatello Natural Gas introduced a new exhibit dealing with the financing of its proposed pipeline.

Commissioner R. N. Beamer said it looked as if three weeks would be time for attorneys of the other two firms to question Nix about it.

"We feel that inasmuch as the exhibit is in the record, the others should be given an opportunity to calculate their questions," Beamer said.

The hearings have been in progress since Oct. 27, except for an 18-day recess.

Under cross - examination, Nix told the commission yesterday that Pocatello expects profits of $90,000 after five years of operation, even with the loss of two large industrial

Driver Held Here For Tipsy Count

Ivan Bacon, 52, Hansen, is being held in the city jail on a drunk driving charge after being arrested in the 200 block of Ash street south early Thursday morning.

Police said Bacon drove his 1948 Chevrolet from one side of the road to the other, barely missing a collision with the police car. He was first observed in the 200 block of Blue Lakes boulevard south. Bacon refused to permit a blood test.

Motorist Loses Game of Tag With Driverless Automobile

BURLEY, Nov. 25 — Calvin T. Christensen, 30, Nyssa, Ore., was injured slightly Wednesday afternoon when he was outmaneuvered by a driverless automobile. His 1946 Plymouth was demolished in the crash 10 miles south of Malta on highway 30S.

Christensen told Sheriff LeRae Layton and Deputy Sheriff George Warrell he tried to dodge the "crazy acting" automobile that was headed toward him but forged when he should have zagged.

The automobile was inadvertently turned loose under its own power by Mrs. Addie Mills, 65, Nampa. She told investigating officers the 1949 Dodge eased off the shoulder of the road and that she turned the steering wheel suddenly to bring it back onto the highway.

The quick action of the automobile threw her from the car to the pavement.

As she fell from the moving automobile, the car headed sharply in the opposite direction, throwing her husband, Clay Mills, 72 out the other door. As the two elderly people skidded and rolled along the pavement, the driverless automobile continued down the highway for 450 feet, racing from one side of the road to the other.

Christensen said he tried to avoid a crash but that the driverless Dodge caught him almost headon. Damage to the Dodge was estimated at $500.

All three persons were treated at the Cottage hospital for minor injuries. Mrs. Mills was the most seriously injured with bruises, skin burns and shock.

Church Drive

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 25 (AP) — Pro-government organizations called a mass meeting today to support President Juan D. Peron's drive against Roman Catholic clergymen accused of meddling in political and labor affairs.

The call came as police announced that the Rev. Rodolfo Carboni has been sentenced to a 30-day jail term for preaching a sermon which criticized Peron's regime.

Police arrested the Reverend Carboni three days ago after it was reported he contrasted nazi persecution of German Catholics to present conditions in Argentina.

Father Carboni's reading of a papal encyclical on nazi persecutions and his subsequent comments on the Peron government were said to have caused disturbances in which three women were hurt.

"The circumstances are applicable to the present epoch our country is living through," Father Carboni said after reading the encyclical. "Then, as now here, children were imprisoned and disturbed by the action of the government and we, the clergymen, are libeled, persecuted and arrested."

Several other priests have been reported arrested on the grounds of interfering in state affairs, but it was not announced whether they, too, had been given jail sentences.

U. S. Ponders Means to Get Yanks Freed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Measures short of war were being carefully weighed today by American officials charged with trying to win freedom for 13 Americans condemned to prison by Red China.

With military action apparently ruled out—President Eisenhower has said every step "humanly possible within peaceful means"—state department officials had three principal avenues open to them:

1. To protest in "the strongest terms possible," as they already have set out to do, to Red China's representative at Geneva.

2. To bring pressure on Communist China, as they have in the past, through British and other allied representatives at Peiping, or perhaps even through the Russians.

3. To go to the United Nations, as they did with protests against atrocities in Korea and the shooting down of an American plane, with demands for a resolution of censure.

Even while they were at it, these officials could do their best toward mobilizing world opinion against Red China for what the United States called the "amoral" and "contrageous" jailing of innocents on trumped up charges. Widespread public indignation on this score could hurt Peiping's drive for diplomatic recognition and a seat at the U.N.

Fire Fighters March Slated

City firemen and auxiliary members will conduct the fire fighters march for muscular dystrophy between 7 and 9 p. m. Friday and Saturday in the residential areas, reminds L. Z. Bartlett, local fire chief.

All persons who wish to contribute to support scientific research into this baffling disease are asked to turn on their porch lights. Firemen and auxiliary members plan to contact only those homes that have porch lights turned on.

Solicitors are conducting the fund drive on their own time. It is part of a national fund raising campaign. All funds collected will go to the Muscular Dystrophy association of America, Inc.

Special badges and certificates will identify persons authorized to make residential collections.

Praises Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 25 (AP)—U. S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, jr., today praised Brazil's treatment of race relations, which he called "so troublous a problem, today in so many areas."

He said this country's "freedom from racial tensions and conflicts, its freedom from the discriminations engendered by prejudice, is an enlightened chapter of man's dealings with man."

Records of Trailer Rental Companies Indicate Steady Growth of Twin Falls

A good many more people are moving into Twin Falls than are leaving, report the operators of three trailer rental firms.

One of the operators, H. H. Soper, has an almost entirely Twin Falls business while the other two firms handle rentals to and from other Magic Valley communities. Because their rentals include a large area, they have no definite check on local growth. The other operators are Robert Geer and John Stephenson.

Soper is interested in his city and in Twin Falls. "There are not just regular fly-by-nighters," Soper says, "but decent people who have come a long way to find the perfect place to live."

Most important, of course, is the fact that practically all of the trailers which are being pulled into Twin Falls come with families who arrive to settle. "They are not just regular fly-by-nighters," Soper says, "but decent people who have come a long way-to find the perfect place to live."

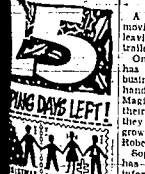

Soper makes it a habit to talk to the newcomers. He is interested in people in general and he feels it is important that the new settlers get the best impression of Twin Falls from the very beginning.

The trailers leaving the Soper lot are almost without exception rented by college students going to school or by servicemen called to a distant post. Soper stresses this fact, because he thinks it is an indication that few if any families are leaving Twin Falls for good.

Soper mentioned that trailer outfits in Boise, Pocatello and Idaho Falls come here with trucks and pick up trailers. "Apparently there are lots of people leaving those places," he said.

"Trailers come from all over the nation," Soper said. He finds it difficult to keep an accurate check on the figure compares with 15 at the same time last year, indicating that the rate of "immigration" to Twin Falls is almost four times higher now than in 1953.

Soper admits his business should not be taken as a foolproof barometer of the growth of Twin Falls. But he does feel it is indicative of the over-all trend.

T. F. Growth Indicated by Trailers Use ficult to establish any particular trend. California, Oregon and Washington contribute most of the newcomers, he thinks, although families are coming from Missouri, Texas, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Utah, other points in Idaho and just about every other state in the union.

"It is interesting to note," he said, "how it is possible to predict a sudden influx of new settlers. If, for instance, they have a drought in Missouri, I can be pretty sure that several families from that state will come here later."

Soper says the "immigrants" arrived at all times of the year rather than attempting travel during the summer or "dry" months. He has found, however, that the beginning and end of the school year usually influences moving. Parents are reluctant to have their children start at a new school in the middle of the year.

George Soper, Pine Pointe west, says that his U-Haul-trailer service up until a couple of months ago was the only outlet for the firm in the valley. He therefore handled customers from other valley towns and is unable to determine what percentage of the families coming in say here or are leaving from like to time to seek better jobs elsewhere, but far more people are coming here to settle.

The fire broke out early yesterday at the Lorring School for Girls, on Chicago's south side. One fireman died of a heart attack and two others were killed when their truck collided with a meat truck on the way to the fire.

Police seized the three youths for questioning yesterday when a school principal saw them loitering in the neighborhood.

Stores Expect Record Sales In Yule Items

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (U.P.)—Christmas business in the nation's department and specialty stores this year is expected to set a new record, the National Retail Dry Goods association said Thursday.

Announcing results of a survey of its 7,000 member stores, the NRDGA disclosed that 52 per cent of those reporting look for an increase over last year's Christmas sales, while 36 per cent expect volume to equal that of a year ago.

Only 12 per cent anticipate a decrease, it was noted.

The "typical" store hopes to increase its Christmas volume by about 5 per cent, according to NRDGA President Wade G. McCargo, Richmond, Va.

Ten per cent of the reporting retailers expect Christmas sales to top a year-ago business by more than 10 per cent, McCargo said, while 24 per cent anticipate gains of 4 to 6 per cent.

The great majority of reporting stores plan no increase this year in their Christmas advertising.

Sixty-four per cent of the stores intend to spend the same amount on promotion as they did last Christmas, 27 per cent will increase their promotional outlays and 9 per cent will spend less than last year, the NRDGA said.

By and large, department stores are putting increased emphasis on "practical" and budget-priced gifts. However, the association reported, specialty stores are putting the heaviest stress on luxury items.

FPC Attorney Backs Private Dam in River

the dams, would have to resolve these questions:

1. Whether development of Snake river water resources should be undertaken by the federal government (an affirmative finding under the federal power act would preclude issuance of the license.)

Adoption Is Question

2. Whether Idaho Power's three-dam plan is the "best adapted, or can be best adapted in a reasonable time, to a comprehensive plan of development of the water resources of the region for use and benefit of interstate or foreign commerce, for improvement and utilization of water power development and for other beneficial public uses."

Mason concluded, after a study of evidence taken in a yearlong hearing on the applications:

1. "The United States itself need not undertake the development of the water resources of the Hells canyon reach of the Snake river for public purposes, and

Recommends License

2. "A license should be issued to the applicant for the Brownlee, Oxbow and low Hells canyon projects, subject to the usual terms and conditions and certain special conditions which the record shows to be in the public interest, one of which would be the construction of Brownlee, Oxbow and low Hells canyon projects in the order just named."

Mason recommended that FPC issue one 50-year license for the three projects, requiring that they be built over a period of nine years.

Idaho Power's three-dam plan, Mason said, would "permit a reasonable prompt development of a water power resource now going to waste, would assist in providing sooner a source of power supply for the development of phosphate resources for use in fertilizer production and would make possible the serving of electric consumers in the service area of the applicant with the lowest cost power supply that it could develop."

In addition, he said, the three dams would provide some flood control and navigation benefits "at no cost to the United States."

Maximum Power

Mason said the federal one-dam plan would produce the maximum amount of "economic power." The private free-dam plan, he said, "would produce the most economic amount of electric power."

"The increment of power that the one-dam plan would produce over the three-dam plan would cost almost as much as its value," he added.

Total dependable capacity of 767,000 kilowatts from the three dams would be fully utilized in the applicant's own system by about 1975 and in the Northwest area about as soon as it could be developed," Mason continued.

Initial capacity of the federal power plant would be 800,000 kilowatts with provision for an additional 400,000 kilowatts.

The department said cash receipts from livestock and livestock products totaled 13.8 billion dollars, down three per cent from a year ago, and crop receipts totaled 10.4 billion dollars, down five per cent.

been that the supreme court should remand the Clarendon county suit back to the district court for an enforcement order. The Clarendon suit was one of five on which the supreme court made its historical decision last May.

"White said it showed a "weakening" of the administration's influence on courts in southern states when it took the occasion to urge endorsement of his state's proposal to set up private schools. Georgia and South Carolina citizens already have adopted similar amendments.

"My great hope," White said, "is that Mississippi will remain in a position to operate its segregated public school system."

Probe Is Slated In Prison Death

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 25 (U.P.)—Authorities made plans today for an extensive investigation behind the walls of Lewisburg federal prison to determine a motive in the shotgun slaying of William Walter Remington.

Remington, a former $10,000-a-year government economist imprisoned for lying about his communist associations, died yesterday, two days after he was found dazed and bleeding in the cell he occupied as an honor prisoner.

Authorities said the fatal assault on Remington may have been instigated through prisoner resentment over the scheduled release of Alger Hiss from the same prison on Saturday.

Dockmen Receive Union Shop Pact

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (U.P.)—A contract agreement providing a union shop for the first time and virtually eliminating the controversial shape up system of hiring on the New York waterfront was reached early today between the New York Shipping association and the International Longshoremen's Association (Ind.).

Union officials said they would recommend acceptance of the agreement when it is presented to the rank and file next week for acceptance.

The contract would run for two years and could not be reopened for any reason.

Probe in Gas Not Finished During Talks

firms that have indicated the proposed rates are too high.

The Westvaco Minerals Division of the Food and Machinery Corporation, makers of elemental phosphorus, and the J. R. Simplot company, which manufactures fertilizer, have told the commission they can afford only the cheaper gas rates provided by the pipeline company. Both operate plants in Pocatello.

But Nix said he believes his firm will be able to work out rates with residential users and other commercial users, with substantial savings to most consumers.

Pocatello wants to serve only a limited area in five communities of southeastern Idaho.

Earlier in the day a tangle developed between the Idaho Natural Gas company and the Intermountain Gas company, which have applied for a franchise in 30 southern counties.

George W. Carpenter, New York city, an engineering consultant for Idaho Natural, said his firm could install a distribution system for 20 per cent less than Intermountain.

He said Idaho Natural proposes to award the job to a contractor who would complete the system before distribution began. Intermountain proposes instead to make only a small initial installation, then expand as the market expands.

Carpenter said the Intermountain method would be more expensive and "the extra cost would be in the rate base forever at the expense of the customer."

But Intermountain attorney W. H. Langrole attempted to bring out in cross-examination that Idaho Natural would use more pipeline footage than Intermountain in serving the same population.

The witness testified under questioning that Idaho plans to build 278,700 feet of pipeline in Pocatello, against 247,300 feet for Intermountain.

Senator Ignoring 'Petition' Battles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (U.P.)—Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, R., Utah, said today he is not paying any attention to the battle of petitions for and against censure of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

Watkins, chairman of the special senate committee which recommended the McCarthy censure, said he does not intend to guide his conduct by public opinion in this "judicial" proceeding.

Senators should settle the McCarthy question on the basis of "the facts and the law," he said in an interview.

Supply Low

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (U.P.)—The nation's stocks of gasoline declined 72,000 barrels to a new 1954 low last week and were only 4,170,00 barrels above year ago levels, the American Petroleum Institute reported.

As recently as June 27 gasoline stocks were 21 million barrels higher than at the same time last year.

Program of Trio Charms Audience

A large audience was present Wednesday night to hear three artists, Leopold Mannes, pianist; Bronislav Gimpel, violinist, and Luigi Silva, cellist, present a program of chamber music at the junior high school auditorium under the auspices of Town Hall.

The trio presented Mendelssohn's sonata in D minor to open the evening's entertainment, and closed with Ravel's Trio in A.

Gimpel's solo, Tartini's sonata in G minor, ("The Devils Trill") received very good applause and a second bow. Silva's solo, G. B. della Ciaia's Toccata e Canzona, also was well received.

The group played well together and gave excellent interpretations of their selections. They were called back by the enthusiastic audience for an encore.

Ernest Ragland, superintendent of schools, introduced the trio.

INTER-AMERICAN SHOWROOM

The United States does more than seven billion dollars worth of trade a year with Latin America, a greater volume than with any other part of the world. Consequently, any project designed seriously to foster further growth of that trade merits broad support.

The new Inter-American trade and cultural center at Miami appears to be such a project. This ambitious development is aimed at promoting trade relations among the Americas by providing a spectacular display case for both U. S. and Latin-American wares and by affording businessmen and government people a chance to rub elbows both casually and officially in a friendly setting.

Now in the financing stage, the Inter-American center is planned as a privately operated but publicly guided 200 million dollar project. It would occupy an 1,800-acre site on the northern edge of Biscayne bay, in the heart of the Miami area's most recent population growth.

Sponsors of the center envisage it as a kind of world's fair on the New York-Chicago-San Francisco pattern, except that it would be a continuing, ever-changing exposition. The center would take full advantage of Miami's climate and lush vegetation to give the project a dazzling architectural scheme in a sub-tropical background.

Business analysts who have studied the plan consider it financially feasible. Noting the million-plus population of Florida's "Gold Coast" on the Atlantic, the several million tourists who pour into the region every year, and Miami's accessibility from the whole Western Hemisphere (it is near the population center), these specialists foresee an average attendance of 10 million visitors a year on a continuing basis.

The planners have tried to learn from the successes and failures of other fairs. They want their project studded with attractions like beaches, boating facilities, picnic areas. They want the industrial exhibits so deftly designed and unified that the visitor will be irresistibly drawn through the entire fair.

If these features can give the center a solid core of attendance, the sponsors are confident the project will be self-supporting, and that both U. S. and Latin-American manufacturers and merchants will find the center an unparalleled "showroom" and meeting place.

Besides this underlying serious trade purpose, the Inter-American center is counted upon to develop and improve cultural relations among the Americas. It is to become a sort of "international house" of the Western hemisphere, where greater understanding may flourish among men who have not always understood one another.

Congress voiced its official approval of the project by adopting a resolution affirming the "prime necessity" for such a center. The state of Florida created a special center authority to develop the plan. Latin-American nations have given every sign of eager support and participation.

It will be a good thing for this country and for our Latin neighbors when the Inter-American center gets "over the hump" and becomes a reality.

DEWEY'S FUTURE

Governor Dewey of New York has at least temporarily put the seal on his public career by announcing his affiliation with a prominent New York City law firm.

Dewey says he is tired of the pressures of public office and will genuinely welcome private life. There is no reason to doubt his sincerity on this score.

Nevertheless, most Americans who have watched Dewey in the political arena these past 16 years or so will probably wonder if political ambition really has died within him. He is still young as public figures go—52. He still has all his political resourcefulness. .

True, he also has severe handicaps. Many in the Republican party blame him alone for the GOP defeat in 1948. And his role in the Eisenhower triumph of 1952 at Chicago is resented by those who supported the late Senator Taft.

But time could eliminate much of that resentment if Dewey now comports himself carefully in his quasi-private status. For he will be making many public appearances and will continue inevitably to play a role in his party's activities.

It will be interesting to watch.

PATIENCE, FORTITUDE

British Historian Arnold Toynbee, on his Washington visit to promote sales of his monumental ten-volume "Study of History," sums up his findings of the whole work in one neat phrase:

"We can't just fold our hands and let history rip," he says.

His ten-volume job is a study of ten civilizations of the past and why they fell, with an eye on what might happen to modern civilization.

What's needed now are practical alternatives to mass suicide via the nuclear bombs. "How can we keep our fears and pride from getting the better of us?" he asks. "How can we get along without having to annihilate each other?"

His own answer is that "Patience and fortitude are what we need." Patience is what we need to overcome our pride—our desire to be the chosen people and conquer the world. Fortitude is needed to overcome our fears.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The senate move to censure Joseph R. McCarthy for abusive language toward fellow-members and an army officer serves as a sharp reminder that this august body was not always so concerned over undignified anatagonistic behavior. It used to condone actual physical violence on the floor of the senate.

Ray Tucker

Another ironic aspect of present and past ethical attitudes is that most of the historic offenders were men from the South—the very group which now believes that the Wisconsin man should be reproved for conduct unbecoming a member of congress. In more recent years it is the Dixie delegation which has upheld the conservative traditions of the senate, personally and politically.

HIGHER BEHAVIOR STANDARDS—The explanation for the change lies in the fact that, year by year, the congress and the American people have set more lofty standards for the behavior of men in politics and public life. This same general progress is measured by such landmark reforms as civil service, the corrupt practices law and the Hatch act.

But official censure of the senator from Wisconsin, although few of the participants in the row seem to realize it, will rank as the entirely new and elevated code of conduct on Capitol hill.

ROWDY CONDUCT OF PAST—It was not so long ago that a trio of plutocratic Southerners delighted and entertained congressional colleagues with antics and activities which outrowdied McCarthy's. They were "Cotton Tawm" Heflin of Alabama, Theodore (The Man) Bilbo of Mississippi and Huey P. (Every Man a King) Long of Louisiana. By today's standards, each would have been hauled up for official chastisement.

They abused senators, presidents and public figures almost every time they rose to their feet. Day after day, in 1928, Heflin delivered philippics against the Democratic high command and the Catholic church. Long ridiculed the late Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia so offensively that, although then in his seventies, Glass threatened to "punch his nose."

TURN OF CENTURY INCIDENT—Heflin was not even questioned for shooting at a colored man in the early days of the century, when he was a member of the house. Then no prohibitionist but a lolly soaked one, Heflin was riding down Pennsylvania avenue, on his way to deliver a church lecture on temperance.

Angered because he thought the colored passenger had trampled on a woman's foot while leaving the trolley, Heflin pulled a gun and shot through the window. His bullet missed its target, ricocheted on the pavement and struck a pedestrian jockey in the leg.

The Alabama member's congressional colleagues rushed to his rescue at the police station. Unfortunately, none had sufficient collateral—property or cash—to furnish bail, and the funds were supplied by one of Heflin's bartender friends from the St. James hotel, which then stood only a block from the present site of the Mellon art gallery.

PHYSICAL ATTACKS—The slavery question provoked several rows in which physical violence was employed by the political ancestors of the men on Capitol hill, now bent on raising the senatorial level of behavior.

In 1856, Representative Preston Brooks, nephew of Senator Butler of South Carolina, walked into the senate chamber and, finding that Senator Charles Sumner of Massachusetts was over the head again and again, with a heavy cane. Sumner's health was never good after this beclubbing.

In another slavery debate, Sen. Henry Stuart Foote of Mississippi pulled a loaded pistol on the famous Sen. Thomas Benton of Missouri. As late as 1902, fiery "Pitchfork" Ben Tillman of South Carolina swapped blows on the senate floor with Sen. John L. McLaurin of the same state.

NEWSPAPERMAN STARES—The last and most recent physical encounter involved the late Rep. Willie Jett Upshaw of Georgia, an ardent prohibitionist, and "Bob" Choate, then the Washington correspondent of the Boston Herald and now the editor of that esteemed newspaper. In the house corridor during the mid-twenties, Upshaw slapped the newspaperman's face, in a dry-versus-wet argument.

It is, perhaps, no accident that such emotional issues as slavery and prohibition, and communism in McCarthy's case, have been contributory causes to misbehavior on capitol hill. There should be a law against political emotion!

VIEWS OF OTHERS

WHERE THERE'S A WILL

The principle of self-help, which has been used in Boise with marked success in the elimination of a serious hazard in covering of open irrigation ditches, now is being employed in Meridian for the same purpose—and with gratifying results.

Members of the Meridian Junior Chamber of Commerce, in a one-hour house-to-house canvass last week, collected $435 to be turned into a fund for the covering of a block-long stretch of irrigation ditch adjacent to a grade school. Previously, the volunteer committee's chairman reported, $677 had been contributed toward the project. Total cost has been estimated at $2,036. Work is to be started within the month. Likely, as in Boise, a good deal of this work will be done by volunteer labor, and so the monetary money required will be reduced.

With no intention at all of making an invidious comparison, it is to be recalled that advocates of ditch covering in Idaho Falls a long time ago carried their case to the city council, asking for an appropriation of public funds, and getting nowhere. There are no reports, so far as we have been able to discover, that anything further has been done in regard to ditch-covering in that area. And we are sincerely sorry if that is true.

Development in these projects in Boise, and now in Meridian, lend credit to prove that where there's a will there's a way.—Boise Statesman.

SOUND FARM SOLUTION

A realistic view of farm crop price supports was taken by Herman Praeger, president of the Kansas Farm bureau, when he told members of the organization in convention he did not believe such a program can ever be a sound one for agriculture on a permanent peacetime basis.

Actual costs in money have been heavy, he pointed out, and vast quantities of food have spoiled or deteriorated in the storage they had to be sold at lower prices, with heavy losses to the government.

Praeger alluded to the fact that price props have been extended nine years into a peacetime era, with the result that farmers continue to sell a large portion of their production to the government at prices the consumer would not pay. Praeger urged delegates to the meeting to be honest about price supports and government restrictions, and "to look ahead."

What he had to say about acreage allotments represents widespread thinking on the subject. As a wheat farmer he resents being limited as to acreage. "I don't like a program that limits me to less than 70 per cent of my normal acreage," he declares.

Many farmers have been voicing the sentiments Praeger expresses. They want to be permitted to run their own business, and are at the same time willing to take their chances with the market.—Idaho Falls Post-Register.

THE MEANEST INVENTION

Wouldn't you know it? A fellow has now invented a way to keep unused time from being left on a parking meter. The departing car passes over a rubber hose and moves a ferocious wiper out to the unexpired time on the meter. The inventor of this infernal device is Francis J. Janchan, of West Allis, Wis.

Unexpired time on parking meters is one of the few pleasant windfalls left to slacks-and-bobbies people these days. Stumbling upon it gives one a little glow. Here is a gift, anonymous and all-too-perhaps unintentional, but nonetheless gracious and personal.

Even this vestigial amenity to be wiped out by the squish of a rubber hose? If so, our inventors should next turn their attention to inventing something which will insure that candy, when placed in the mouths of small children, will vanish in a puff of dust, instead of sticking stickily around to be eaten.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

GOTTA DIET?

This is for all you good constituents who have been following a diet. No one else need read it, particularly the doctors who prescribe the diets and the people who figure 'em out.

Don't stand around and drool while someone fills up on turkey or ham or goose or chicken or something else today. The best way to cycle.

And when you finish you calorie-free meal or starch-free feed or whatever it is, sit down and think for two or three hours. Think of turkey, sweet potatoes, thick gravy, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, etc., etc.

Then you'll be ready for your Thanksgiving meal. We recommend you eat the diet meal first. That way you'll appreciate the real McCoy a bit more.

NEED RAIN FIRST

Dear Pot:

That was a mighty nice scheme to collect 10 gallons of rain water. And if memory doesn't fail, the T-N story anent same said some rain was expected over the week-end. That was LAST week-end and just what happened to the rain?

We figured we'd go along with the plan because we personally believe those cloud-seeders were responsible for most of that last rain here. And those jokers might upset the nice dry weather we have here most of the time, so we put a big glass bowl out in the middle of the back yard.

Well, the bowl is still there, but it's full of leaves now plus a little dirt and it's cracked where someone kicked it into a swing one night.

By the way, just when can we EXPECT the next rain?

"OTHERED BY GHOSTS"

Dear Pot Shots:

Are any of your readers, particularly the veterans, bothered by ghosts? Veterans are singled out particularly because they have seen the hollow-cheeked specter of starvation. If they got overseas in the last war, they must have seen it, regardless of the theater of operation of the country involved.

Will the ghosts of those hollow-cheeked people be present at their tables on Thanksgiving? Probably not, and that is good, because we should forget the unpleasant and remember only the pleasing things.

Gives you something to be thankful for just in case you're wondering why this particular approach. Ask some of the vets, or anyone else who has had a chance to observe people in some other country.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—The Republican campaign orators, from national chairman Leonard Hall down, called the Democratic party the war party and the Republican party the party of peace. But it is scarcely an exaggeration to say that a war party and a peace party are in control of both the executive and legislative branches. While Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland wants a stronger line on China, with reciprocal trade ties with the Communist nations as the sinking of the nationalist destroyer escort off the nationalist held Tachen islands, the President has indicated that he wants to find a way out of the stalemate on China policy.

Marquis Childs

One of those most actively advocating a stronger line toward China is Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Not long ago the President vetoed a proposal by three members of the JCS—Radford, Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of staff of the air force—that the Nationalist Chinese be permitted to carry their bombing raids into the interior of China. The recommendations before the national security council is also said to have covered the participation of American bombers if the Nationalists seemed to be losing the battle.

That this rebuff has not prevented Radford from advocating the strong-line policy. He relies for ideological support on his friend of Dulles' policy Bible to Radford, is that so long as the communists are in control anywhere there can be no real peace in the world.

While Bullitt does not advocate preventive war, he stresses every means short of that to liberate not only the satellite peoples but the Russians themselves from communist domination. Again and again he quotes Lenin and Stalin to the effect that any period of peace must be merely a truce preparatory to a new attack on atheistic communism's domination throughout the world.

Bullitt and those who think like him now feel that the danger to America is far greater than it was at the end of World war II. Then, regardless of the threat of Russia, they expressed his private view of the need for strong measures against China, such as a tight blockade of the mainland, urged direct intervention to the beleaguered Dien Bien Phu in Indochina last April.

He was overruled partly because the British refused to share the responsibility and partly because the joint chiefs of the joint chiefs, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, was bitterly opposed. The President took the unprecedented step in giving Ridgway a hearing to make a personal presentation to the national security council in which he argued that American ground troops would almost immediately be called for to support planes from American aircraft carriers.

There is every likelihood of an intensive public campaign to sever Russian-American relations. It is possible that this will be spearheaded by the organization for America which recently announced an impressive list of new sponsoring members, including a number of former generals and admirals. Among them were Gen. James Van Fleet and Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, both ardent and active advocates of a "get tough" line with China.

So the President, who does not like controversy, and particularly in his own family, will have to take a stand.

As they have been doing in the currently suspended debate over censure of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, the Democrats are taking an "I told you so" attitude on the defense-foreign policy issue. Many Democratic campaign orators criticized the administration for making defense cuts which they said had imperilled national security. Some Democrats, including Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson and Senator Paul H. Douglas who won an outstanding election victory in Illinois, take a line nearly as strong as that of Knowland.

Within his own administration the President has some staunch allies on the peace issue. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson has imposed restraints on the "get tough" advocates. Wilson has worked with his close friend, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, to cut down the defense budget and reduce the military establishment.

In coming weeks, and particularly after the new congress convenes with the Democrats in control, much more will be heard of this issue. It will not be decided by one statement for a single senate debate. But if there are many more incidents, such as that involving the Nationalist gunboat, the question can be quickly fanned to white heat.

"Everyone Suspicious," No Uninvited Airline Passe

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 25 (AP)—Richard (wrong plane) Grandison said today everyone aboard French Premier Pierre Mendes-France's special plane viewed him with suspicion in their trans-Atlantic flight—except the premier himself.

Grandison, a Jersey City, N. J., telegrapher, had no business being aboard the Air France airliner that brought Mendes-France home from a visit to the United States and Canada.

But he saw the big plane preparing to take off at New York's Idlewild airport and boarded it thinking it was the airliner on which he had booked passage.

It was not until the plane was airborne that Grandison discovered his "wonderful mistake."

"I saw Premier Mendes-France and a lot of other important-looking people on the field but nobody stopped me when I walked out and up into the plane," Grandison said.

The seat that Grandison chose turned out to be the premier's and he was told to move forward.

Then the stewardess came around and asked to see my ticket," Grandison said. "When she saw it she got all excited and said I was on the wrong plane. She told the pilot but he said it was too late."

Grandison said much confusion and arm-waving followed.

Flushed with the success of his predatory game call, Higley decided to expand his business by calling upon the lore gathered in years studying wild animals. In 1949, he started making deer calls.

"I noticed that deer make two sounds," he explains. "One is a snort, which I could never figure the meaning of, and the other is like a dove coo, which deer seem to use as an all-clear, or feeding signal."

His deer calls are of the same basic construction as the predatory game calls. The reed is weighted however, and the call is blown differently. Higley offers a recording for sale with his calls so that his customers know what sort of sounds they are supposed to produce.

In 1950 he branched out again, this time to elk calls. Unlike the predator call, which sounds like an easy meal to preying birds and animals, and the deer call, which lull deer into a false sense of security, his elk call is a challenge, the bugle of the bull elk.

The elk call is reedless, about one-inch-in-diameter and six inches long and is made of unbreakable plastic tubing. Higley had the tubing manufactured especially for him, and had to gamble with an order of 2,400 feet before the manufacturer would agree to make it.

Like his predator and deer calls, Higley says his elk call has proved a success. Fred Moore, Heyburn, says that the first time he tried the elk call, he was almost run down by a big bull elk. Similar stories have come to the Burley man from elk hunters in this country and Canada.

The bugling of a bull elk usually is sounded with five notes in three different pitches. The call starts with about low C, jumps to middle C and then up to E or higher, and back down again. Higley's elk call if blown properly, is capable of this range.

In addition to individual orders, Higley stocks sporting goods stores from California to Ohio with his calls. Fall and winter are his big seasons. He's thankful that his summers are slow, permitting him plenty of time for fishing, visiting and the leisure stocking of calls for the fall rush.

One thing about Higley's calls have him baffled. Hunters have written him that they have successfully imitated the love call of the cow moose on his elk call and have lured romantically inclined bull moose that way. Higley, however, doesn't know how to make the sound.

"One of these days I'm going to take a little time out and head for moose country for a little research," he said. "I sure can't advertise a successful moose call if I can't make a record of what it's supposed to sound like!"

H. V. Higley, Burley, probably wouldn't qualify as a musician with his personally manufactured "instruments," but his tunes are well liked by certain audiences. Here he gives out with a couple of hot licks on his elk call. Some of the users of his elk calls claim they can imitate the sighs of a lovesick cow moose. (Staff photo-engraving)

U. S., Moscow May Be Near Arm Equality

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—The United States and Russia may be reaching that point in developing their hydrogen bombs where neither will want to get into a war which might mean the annihilation of both.

But a military stalemate between the west and Russia doesn't mean either will still stand still. Neither can afford to. The undeveloped areas of the earth are huge. The people living in them can be numbered in the hundreds of millions.

Neither the west nor Russia can sit idly while the other tries to win over those millions of people with their vast land and resources.

No doubt the communists—as they showed in Korea—will try to take over by invasion where they think the west will let them get away with it. Where the communists can't use direct military means, other weapons are handy.

They can use internal subversion and propaganda—based on promises, appeals to nationalism, and the wretched lives and living conditions of the people in the backward areas—to win with intrigue and words what they can't take by arms.

As an example: Suppose you were a southeast Asian living in poverty, just as your fathers before you, and poverty was all you could see in store for your children—and then someone showed you practically non-existent. Your life expectancy, and the life expectancy of your children, was far less than that of an American or Western European.

You had no education. There was small chance of it for your children. Freedom? Western men prized it but they had held you as a colonial until recently. Democracy? You had heard of it. But it had never been part of your heritage.

Then suppose the communists—men of your own country—promised you and your children a better life, medical care, education, jobs with good pay, old age security. And the cost to you? Just supporting the communists.

That you were surrendering to a dictatorship which might leave you in the end more wretched economically than before getting you—and even mean much to you if you never had a fair chance to understand and enjoy freedom and practice democracy.

How then can the west offset the promises of the communists and win over the people of the backward areas, giving them a sense of direction, a new hope, a promise of a better life and, more than that, make the promise a reality?

The Eisenhower administration apparently is working to keep the backward areas from the communists with a program to make the people there stay with the west.

Administration officials Tuesday were reported considering a new foreign economic program which may lead to the investment of billions of dollars in underdeveloped countries, notably in non-communist Asia.

Cars Damaged

Two automobiles were damaged but no one was injured in a collision Wednesday night in the 200 block of Main avenue north.

Police said a 1950 Ford driven by Russell Johnson, 1691 Elm street, collided with a 1941 Chevrolet driven by Chester Anderson, 27 Walnut street. According to police, the Chevrolet stopped suddenly for a car in front of it and the Ford, following behind, could not stop in time to avoid the collision.

Two of Imprisoned Yanks Disappeared During 'Ike's' Visit, Spokesman Says

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP)—A far east, red force spokesman revealed today that two of the 13 Americans imprisoned as "spies" by Red China disappeared the night President Eisenhower landed in Seoul on his post-election "end the war" mission.

The spokesman said the two men hitched a ride on a civil air transport plane that disappeared mysteriously Dec. 2, 1952, between Seoul and Tokyo.

Their plane never was heard from after it crossed the Korean east coast, the spokesman said. Communist China claimed, however, the plane was shot down over northeast China and that the pilot and co-pilot were killed.

The two passengers were identified by the Tokyo spokesman as John T. Downey, 24, and Richard G. Fecteau, 27.

Although the air force said it did not know, the two hitchhikers apparently were traveling on high military priorities.

Seoul's military airports were under the heaviest guards of the war at the time the CAT plane left because of Mr. Eisenhower's visit. Only authorized persons with proper orders or credentials were allowed on the airfields that night.

If the communist report is true, the plane carrying Downey and Fecteau turned 90 degrees off course after crossing the Sea of Japan and flew north toward Manchuria rather than east toward Tokyo.

The air force spokesman said he could give "no explanation" for what happened to the cargo plane after it vanished from radar screens over the eastern Korean coast.

Air and sea rescue teams scoured the sea of Japan for two days after the plane disappeared but found no trace of wreckage.

The plane was flown by Capts. Bob Snoddy and Norman Schwarz, who both lived in Tokyo.

It was flying at night and may have been ordered on an unfamiliar course because of special security measures in force.

The plane had flown air force cargo to Seoul and discharged it, the FEAF spokesman said. The passengers asked permission to board the plane and fly back to Tokyo.

At the time the plane vanished, CAT officials revealed only the names of the pilot and co-pilot and for some still-unexplained reason did not say the craft was carrying passengers.

Defense officials in Washington said Downey and Fecteau were civilian employes of the U. S. army in Japan but that far east command headquarters said it had no record of the men in its current or retired civilian employes' files.

Radio Peiping charged the two men were agents of America's supersecret counter-intelligence agency.

Downey, accused by the reds as the "chief criminal" among the captured Americans, received a life sentence and Fecteau was sentenced to 20 years in jail.

Judges Opine Play of Caddy Is Also Work

SACRAMENTO, Calif. Nov. 25 (AP)—The third California district court of appeals has taken judicial notice that golf is a very popular sport and that caddies often develop into topnotch players.

The court ruled that Lloyd Winter, 19, Stockton, Calif., Golf and Country club caddy, is entitled to workmen's compensation for the loss of an eye after being struck by a golf ball.

The opinion reversed the state industrial accident commission, which contended the injury did not occur in the course of the boy's employment and that he was playing golf with other caddies on a Monday, when the club allowed the boys to use the course.

The opinion, written by Presiding Justice B. F. Van Dyke, an ardent golfer, and concurred in by Justices Paul Peek, an ex-golfer, and Andrew Schottky, a non-golfer, says in part:

"He (Winter) was engaged in a recreational activity both permitted and sufficiently encouraged by the employer, and the permission and encouragement were conditioned solely upon the fact he was a caddy employed by the club."

New Rambler Show Set by Dealers Here

The 1955 Rambler line will be displayed officially by Wills Motor company, Magic Valley's only Nash dealer, and by valley Hudson dealers Friday.

Ramblers will be individually identified by newly-designed Nash and Hudson medallions. As volume develops, further distinction will be made between Nash and Hudson Rambler cars.

The 1955 lines include the two-door Suburban station wagon, Country Club hardtop and Club Sedan in the 100-inch wheelbase series and the four-door sedan and Cross Country station wagon in the 108-inch wheelbase series.

Styling refinements are highlighted in the entire range of Rambler models, new and sleek in appearance, the new Ramblers are styled by Pinin Farina, noted European custom car designer.

A new front fender design incorporating full wheel cutouts enhancing the Rambler's continental appearance and increasing its maneuverability. With a turning diameter of 38 feet for the two-door series and 38 feet for the four-door series, the Rambler has the best turning diameter among American production cars.

The front suspension features a wider tread and the use of anti-friction ball and needle bearings greatly increasing the ease of turning by eliminating binding of moving parts.

New Ramblers have an entirely new grille consisting of a single die cast in oval design. The entire grill is patterned with a series of convex horizontal and concave vertical bars integrally meshed.

Newly designed Nash and Hudson medallions are mounted in the center of the grille work.

The entire Rambler series employs the "double strength "unit body" with body and frame constructed and welded together to form a single unit.

Airliner reclining seats" and twin travel bed combinations are available in the four-door Rambler series as optional extra cost equipment. Only "reclining seats" are offered as optional equipment on the two-door models.

The "all season" air conditioning system, combining refrigerating, heating and ventilating into one unit, is available on all models at extra cost. "Weather eye" heating and ventilating system is offered as optional equipment.

Interior trim and upholstery combinations are completely restyled with new materials, colors and patterns.

Eleven solid and 11 two-tone exterior baked enamel colors are available.

Tubeless tires are standard equipment.

Pilot and Three Injured in Crash

CALDWELL, Nov. 25 (AP)—An Oregon pilot and three teen-aged passengers escaped with minor injuries yesterday when a light plane crashed in a field five miles northwest of Caldwell shortly after takeoff.

Sheriff Dale Halle identified them as N. C. Jones, 41, Halfway, Ore., pilot and owner of the plane; his son, Dennis, 15; Kathryn Robinson, 16, also Halfway, and Annette Harrison, 17, Newbridge. He said they suffered cuts, bruises and shock.

Jones told authorities that the engine failed shortly after the plane was airborne. He cleared a highway and ditch and crash landed in a beet field. The undercarriage was damaged, and the plane flipped over on its top.

Suit for Damages Settlement OK'd

BOISE, Nov. 25 (AP)—Federal Judge Fred M. Taylor has approved an out-of-court settlement of a $30,177 suit of 10 insurance companies which charged that negligence of Westinghouse Electric corporation led to an accident at an Idaho Power company substation three years ago.

The insurance firms said that the power company had installed two air circuit breakers at its Ontario, Ore., substation in 1951 on the recommendation of Westinghouse.

They charged that the circuit breakers had proved defective, ruining two transformers that carried heavy insurance, which later was paid to Idaho Power. Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

'INAUGURAL BALL SET'

Benson Seeks To End Farm Agency Deals

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Secretary Benson has called for an end to tie-ups between agriculture department employes and private farm organizations in extending services to farmers.

He said the policy of the department is that no employe shall accept the use of free office space, contributions, salary or traveling expenses from any general or specialized farm organization.

In addition, he said no department employe shall solicit membership for private organizations, interfere with their development or influence their programs and policies. Neither, he said, shall they approve any contract for the department providing for "check-offs," from payments due farmers, for membership dues.

Benson, explaining his policy statement at a news conference, said service of the department should be available to all persons regardless of whether they belong to or do not belong to any farm organization.

The GOP farm chief said the policy is aimed largely at tie-ups between the department's extension service and the Farm Bureau, a private farm organization in Illinois and Iowa. Also to instances in which employes of the department's soil conservation service have reportedly solicited membership or farmers in local soil conservation districts.

Although many old people have settled in California and Florida in recent years, New England has a higher proportion of old people than any other section of the country.

Church Uses Last Theater Of Burlesque

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Rev. Russell H. Olson, who converted Minneapolis' last burlesque theater into a house of God, said today after a year of operation that he is outdrawing the strippers.

Olson says his average nightly attendance of 300 to 600 and Sunday audience of up to 2,200 is far larger than the audiences which used to watch burlesque.

Olson, who says his services deal with "sin instead of skin," took over the lease on the old Alvin theater here last Nov. 28 by outbidding the operator of the burlesque. He renamed it the Minneapolis Evangelistic auditorium.

An electric sign on the marquee continues to proclaim "a stageful of beautiful girls" but they are members of the choir, not strip-teasers.

Occasionally an out-of-towner, unaware of the change, enters the building looking for a show and often stays for the revival meeting. Olson says none has ever complained or shouted "take it off."

Among regular attendants at the services is a former singer on the burlesque stage, Olson said. She occasionally is given feature vocal roles at the services.

Olson had no intention to driving burlesque from the twin cities.

"This was the best building available," he explained, "so I went to work to get a lease on it."

Olson, after 24 years in the ministry in Minneapolis, decided to open a non-denominational, evangelistic center here "after the Lord spoke to me." He borrowed $10,000 and by this time he was ready for the first service a year ago. He had gone $17,000 into debt.

Now he has been able to pay all current bills and almost pay off the entire debt.

When he opened the auditorium, Olson featured traveling evangelists who came to Minneapolis for visits of two or three weeks. One of the most popular was "Sister Fern" Huffstutler, Tulsa, Okla., an evangelist for 22 years who came here in May.

Olson married her last September in a ceremony which jammed more than 2,000 persons into the old theater. Hundreds of others were turned away.

Pilot Shipment of Uranium Ore Set

LANDER, Wyo., Nov. 25 (AP)—A pilot shipment of ore is tentatively scheduled to be made this week from the Bullrush claims in the Gas Hills area of Fremont county.

Frank E. Hays, spokesman for a group of claimholders, said an agreement has been made with the Savannah Construction company, Savannah, Ill., to operate the claims. Estimates based on core drill tests made by the atomic energy commission say deposits in the claim are worth more than one million dollars.

Shakespeare Drama Slated In Television

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—William Shakespeare should have lived to see the day.

His "Macbeth" will be played Sunday before a television audience numbering probably more than the population of all England when he wrote the classic melodrama three centuries ago.

And, as he would have liked it, the title roles will be played by two of the leading Shakespearian exponents of our time, Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson, with the skilled Evans as producer.

NBC says the two-hour telecast "will bring Shakespeare to millions more viewers than could possibly see the play in a decade of stage performances."

That's all to the good so far as Evans is concerned. He says, "We have always hoped for the millions" for Shakespearian drama.

But then, he adds, "I don't see why he shouldn't be popular; his works have stood up for 300 years.

"Macbeth" in particular, says Miss Anderson, "is a great moving melodrama."

It is the third two-hour telecast of a play by Shakespeare to be produced by Evans for Hall of Fame, and it's one case of response to public demand. Evans' first was "Hamlet" in April, 1952, and his second was "King Richard II" last Jan. 24. After the last one, mail requests for the next production were preponderantly for "Macbeth."

Evans says it's one of the most adaptable of Shakespeare's plays for television. It's the shortest of his tragedies and will fit into the two-hour period with little cutting.

In the Solomon Islands, the suppression of head hunting by British administrators so disrupted the society of the people that there was a sharp decline in population.

Democrat Solon Thinks New Congress Should Support Flexible Farm Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D., La., said yesterday the Democratic congress shouldn't try to kill the administration's flexible farm support program next year because such a move wouldn't get enough farm-belt backing to succeed.

Ellender, who will head the senate agriculture committee in the new congress, is a staunch advocate of the system of rigid high supports for basic crops which the Republican congress refused to continue into 1955.

But he said in an interview that the November congressional elections indicated to his surprise that "a lot" of midwest farmers "want to give the flexible program a try."

Ellender's "wait and see" attitude put him somewhere between views held by President Eisenhower and house Democratic leader Sam Rayburn, Tex. Mr. Eisenhower told a news conference yesterday his farm belt tour last summer persuaded him Rayburn is wrong in saying that farmers want mandatory 90 per cent supports restored.

Ellender said the flexible program will not arouse immediate and sharp farmer protests when it goes into force next year. Price supports won't be cut at all for cotton and peanuts and corn and rice supports won't be lowered "enough to rile up the farmers," he said.

For that reason, Ellender said, the Democratic congress should sit tight until after support prices are announced for 1956 crops. Then, if they are cut, he said, congress could pass legislation before the 1956 crop harvest reviving supports at 90 per cent of parity.

Educator Hits Criticisms for Debate Topic

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 25 (AP)—Opponents of U. S. diplomatic recognition of communist China are challenging freedom of speech, the president of a national collegiate debating society said yesterday.

Dr. Wayne Eubank of the University of New Mexico, president of Tau Kappa Alpha, spoke out as the Western Speech association tournament proceeded at the University of Arizona.

Students from 36 western schools are debating the proposition: "That the United States Should Extend Diplomatic Recognition to the Communist Government of China."

Eubank said collegiate debaters tackling the controversial question had been warned earlier this year by A Virginia congressman that the names of those who took an affirmative stand would be handed over to the FBI.

"Critics of the debate proposition are not attacking the merits of the question but, more important, they are attacking the great American freedoms—freedom of speech—free and open discussion and debate," Eubank said.

The debaters changed sides each round so as to argue affirmative one time and negative the next.

The Confucian classics in 130 volumes were printed in China more than 1,000 years ago.

Attorneys General Move Site of Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 25 (AP)—The convention of the National Association of Attorneys General has been moved from Phoenix to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., because of controversy over discrimination.

The decision of the association's executive board was announced here by John McGowan, chief deputy Arizona attorney general.

This is the second time the convention site has been changed. The meeting originally was scheduled for Biloxi, Miss.

The meeting will be held in the Greenbrier hotel at White Sulphur Springs Dec. 8-10, the same dates it was scheduled at Camelback Inn here.

Protests had been made against the policy of Camelback Inn of accepting only "carefully selected" members of the Jewish faith.

Capital News Includes Big Senate Flight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP) — What's new in Washington:

Even before the senate decided to recess while Sen. Joseph McCarthy gets over a sore elbow, the senators were packed and ready.

The lobby at the foot of the elevator to the senate floor looked like Union station. Hirelings were standing by with bags that had been packed long before.

The exodus out of the building probably was the fastest in history. It was a matter of money so far as the upper house law-givers were concerned.

When they were called a lot of them had subleased their Washington living quarters and found themselves with expensive holidays on their own. Eating money and entertainment also ran into dough.

A Washington reporter, who hadn't been briefed, called telephone number Hudson 3-5500. He got Battle Creek, Mich. A voice answered and said: "Civil defense."

It seems that when officials of the national headquarters of the federal civil defense administration moved to Battle Creek, a lot of the wheels gave long-distance their Washington office phone number. Calls to that number are switched to Battle Creek without extra charge.

Most pilots in the garden variety of aircraft lug along a whole bunch of maps when they are spanning 3,000 miles across the country. The jet pilots fly so fast that they don't have time between turnings of the stick to be looking behind them for maps. So they have just two maps pasted together.

When you are going six or seven hundred miles in the blue yonder it's easy to run yourself off the map. The coast and geodetic survey, of the department of commerce, has fixed up the stratosphere boys with the new glued-up map. It's about six-feet long but it unfolds easily.

The Pentagon says that our soldiers around Keflavik, Iceland, are coming to the aid of herring fishermen in the North Atlantic. It seems that killer whales, with an appetite for herring, have been raiding the nets of the fishermen. The whales, which average from one to four tons and measure 15 to 30 feet, dive through the nets, gobble up a valuable catch and high-tail it away.

So the army assigned a bunch of army men, bearing Garand rifles, to straighten things out. Our boys scored a victory. One bullet in one whale, according to the army, will get you two killer whales. A wounded whale gets so mad when he is shot that he attacks and kills his companion before he dies.

The army also reports that at least in Seoul, the army's favorite drink is water. The 24th infantry division soldiers slop up three-million gallons of purified water a month.

Had a double hernia and underwent an operation at the age of four months.

Had a congenital heart condition. Spent the first three months of his life in a hospital.

Had measles twice and chickenpox once in his first year.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Madsen, Salt Lake City.

Thanksgiving Prospects Look Good for People Through U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—You can find plenty to be thankful for today. Whether you're a business man or an employe, and no matter what your personal and individual problems may be, collectively this is a happier Thanksgiving than last.

Count up your blessings and see if some of the following couldn't be added when you gather at the feast:

The U. S. senate is in recess. Peace, it is wonderful.

A milk-swigging French premier has been in our midst, bestowing priceless free advertising on the dairy industry—which has been having troubles with some of its products, both politically and consumerwise.

Food prices—especially on the items particularly associated with the holiday—are lower this year. There is every indication that Americans will stuff themselves with more and higher quality food this year than ever before.

Prices in general aren't taking the toll of the pocketbook they once did. Price concessions are numerous, if unpublicized. If family spending stays as high as ever, there's a chance it's because the family thinks Thanksgiving time is enjoying a few more services and conveniences, buying a little higher quality of goods, tending to improve its living standards rather than tighten the purse strings as many were doing a year ago.

You can be thankful that the elections, and what the president calls the political clackety-clack, are over—except for a few recounts. And now you can study the economic picture without having the reports colored by political points of views.

The recession has hit much less drastically at most of the country than you expected last Thanksgiving.

In the areas where the recession was concentrated, causing unemployment and sagging retail sales, there's every sign that it in turn is receding.

Idled workers are punching time clocks again, weekly pay checks are fatter as work weeks lengthen, fewer persons are applying for unemployment insurance benefits, and so store sales are reviving.

There are signs that the fall pickup is a little better than just seasonal. Industrial production in November, while below a year ago, is showing slightly better than average gains over October and September. Inventories, subject to drastic shrinkage attempts during the past year, are beginning to be built up again. As a result order books are filling up, and that means jobs for some time to come.

Veterans Will Get Insurance Refund

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—World war I and II veterans next year will collect 226 million dollars in dividends on their government life insurance.

The veterans administration announced that it will start in January to pay 200 million dollars to holders of about five million World war II National Service Life insurance policies.

The VA said another 26 million dollars would be distributed among holders of some 380,000 World war I U. S. government life insurance policies.

The agency said there will be adjustments in various individual dividend rates because of recent changes in mortality and disability experience. Under both programs, the size of the dividends depends on the type of plan, age, year of issue and the amount of insurance carried.

Rubber Producers of Malaya Happy Over Price Increases

KUALA LUMPUR, Nov. 25 (AP)—Rubber producers of Malaya consider the price for their product is steadily rising. They don't see any reason for making "whoopee."

The price has soared over 82 cents per pound. That's the highest quotation since January.

The astounding boost in recent months is attributed to a brisker demand for natural rubber from the auto industry, and a decline in synthetic rubber production in the United States. American purchases, running 40 per cent of Malaya's exports, now running around 60 per cent monthly.

The world rubber market is highly sensitive. Prices rise or fall often on a single rumor, such as the recent one that Indonesia was going to sell 50,000 tons of crude rubber to Soviet Russia.

Reports of the recent shooting down of an American B-29 by Russian MIG jet fighters acted like a shot in the arm on the rubber market. Prices shot up nearly two cents a pound in the first few minutes.

Rubber still has a long ways to go to make millionaires like it did in 1851. But February, 1951, the price hit the record high of $2.36 a pound. Many rubber men sold out when they had got rich.

After that, there were American charges of "price-gouging" and sales to the United States started falling off and the price tumbled. American synthetic rubber production also spurted to new highs, and the quotation for natural rubber from Malaya slipped down and down.

With the U. S. manufacturers now back as big buyers, traders look for a continuance of the present steady rise in prices.

U. N. Talks on Korean Issue Soft-Pedalled

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—The United States and allies in Korea are trying to soft-pedal the Korean issue in the U. N. assembly until they see a possible break in the diplomatic sources reported last night.

The West and the communists were gathering material and forces for debate in the U. N. assembly's political committee scheduled to begin early next week. But diplomatic sources said the U. N. allies see no reason for a prolonged discussion now.

The West wants to see, however, if recent moves by Russia to lessen international tension go so far as to include the Korean situation.

It was said that the West likely would attempt to have a resolution approved by the U. N. simply noting failure of the Geneva talks on Korea.

The communists, on the other hand, were expected here to renew demands that all foreign troops leave Korea and that elections be held on terms which the West has not found acceptable.

Taxi Door Slams On Hand of Racer

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25 (AP)—Umberto Maglioli, who won the Pan-American road race by driving 1,908 miles at 109 miles an hour without a scratch, mashed his hand in a taxi door Wednesday.

The Italian speed ace said "it couldn't happen to me in the race—it had to happen in a taxi." His hand was smashed when he got out of a taxi at police headquarters to pay a courtesy visit to police officials. A police surgeon bandaged the hand while Maglioli used the other to shake hands with policemen and clerks who crowded around.

Under a normal pension plan, a fund which would provide $100 a month at age 65 would provide only $70 a month at age 60 but would give $158 at age 70.

Topic Discussed

BURL, Nov. 25—Family relations were discussed at a meeting of the Intermediate Youth fellowship, attended by members, at the Methodist church Sunday.

Members of the panel were Mrs. Lawrence Loughmiller, moderator; Nancy Erb, Tony Zornick, James Dowd, Mrs. A. W. Zanick and the Rev. Leonard Clark. Rodney Dowd spoke. Janet Tolin led the worship, and Lumin Coad asked questions of the panel.

New Discs Ready for Record Library

Children's Record Library Scheduled To Begin Operations Here on Dec. 1

The latest addition to the municipal library—a children's record library—will be placed in operation Dec. 1, announces Ralph Secord, city librarian.

About 75 new records make up the children's record library collection. Funds for the records were provided by the Twin Falls Music club. Counting the children's records, the library now has over 200 albums of standard and long playing records.

The youngster's records are all unbreakable plastic and standard speed records. They will be loaned to children for two weeks free of charge.

Additions to both the adult and juvenile record collections are expected to be made periodically by the Twin Falls Music club.

Persons who have records to donate to either the childrens or adult record library are urged to contact Mrs. James B. Kinsey, club president, or the library, phone 425.

Money for the juvenile records was raised last April 8 at a concert given by Stanley Bednar under the sponsorship of the Music club.

New records include "Concerto for Toys and Orchestra," "Diana and the Golden Apples," "Selections From Lieutenant Kije," "Jazz Band," "Lucrezia Bori," the Clarinet's Story," "Music of Aaron Copland."

Churchill Cagey About Early Plan to Arm German Soldiers

LONDON, Nov. 25 (U.P.)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill attempted in parliament today to dismiss his 1945 idea for turning Germans around to fight Russians as nothing new.

But a controversy arose and Independent Socialist Sidney Silverman tried to pin down Churchill further.

Hearing so and still outspoken, Churchill found that a speech he made Tuesday was viewed with alarm in the press and house of commons.

In this speech Churchill offhandedly disclosed he had wired Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery before next Germany's surrender to keep captured German arms ready for release to German soldiers should Russian troops invading from the east fail to stop when they met the allied armies.

Silverman today asked Churchill whether he would publish as a white paper the text of messages he had sent to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1945 relating to storing or preserving German armament with a view to reissuing them to German troops in "certain eventualities."

The relevant message to General Eisenhower has already been published," Churchill said. "I included it in volume six of 'The Second World War' (page 499). It reads as follows:

"May 8th, 1945—I have heard with some concern that the Germans are to destroy all their aircraft. I hope that this policy will not be adopted in regard to weapons and other forms of equipment.

"We may have great need of these some day and even now they might be of use, both in France and especially in Italy.

"I think we ought to keep everything worth keeping. The heavy cannon I preserved from the last war fired constantly from the heights of Dover in this war. There is great joy here."

This answer was not quite as strong as the Tuesday speech, but Churchill was not through with his written reply in which he went on to say that he learned the Russians had dropped parachutists a few miles from Copenhagen in May, 1945 and that communist activities had appeared there.

Churchill said he subsequently ascertained there were only two parachutists but ordered a moderate holding force to Copenhagen by air and moved armored columns into Denmark.

"I think, therefore, having regard to the joyous feeling of the Danes and the abject submission and would-be partisanship of the surrendered huns, we shall head off our Soviet friends at this point, too."

Tonsils Stay in as Boy Bolts Surgery

GALAX, Va., Nov. 25 (U.P.)—Neither snow, nurse nor carefully rigged operating room could stay Jackie Felts from getting away from a tonsil-lectomy.

Jackie, 10, took a powder in the best tradition. He jumped off the operating table, ran out of the hospital barefooted and made it through a snowstorm to the safety of his home.

Fourth grader Jackie did some rather fancy broken field running in eluding hospital staff, police and other pursuers.

The operation has been postponed.

Governor Dewey's Mother Succumbs

OWOSSO, Mich., Nov. 25 (U.P.)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, New York, arrived today for the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Annie Dewey, who died in her sleep Tuesday night at her home.

The governor arrived at Willow Run airport shortly before midnight last night and immediately drove to Owosso by private auto. He flew to Michigan from Miami Beach, Fla., where he had begun a vacation Tuesday.

Services for Mrs. Dewey will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at Christ Episcopal church with the Rev. W. D. Davis officiating. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Trend Says Farmer Is on Way To Being State Manufacturer

PORTLAND, Nov. 25—Are farmers manufacturers?

Judging by current trends, the farmer is on his way to becoming Idaho's most important manufacturer . . . and by economic standards, his future looks bright.

This comes from the National Association of Manufacturers—who should know a fellow manufacturer when he sees one.

The growing importance of the farmer stems from the fact that the state's population is growing faster than the farm population, the NAM said.

Thus, the size of the farmers' market is expanding faster than the number of his competitors.

The agricultural research and more and better machines are allowing the farmer to get the most out of his land with the least possible expenditure of human energy.

Idaho's farm population is expected to increase 17 per cent in the years 1950 to 1960, while the state's total population is believed to be in for an increase of 21 per cent in the same period, the NAM stated.

This means that the average farmer will be providing the mainstays of life for 16 persons in 1950, while he provided for only 14 in 1950. By 1975, it is estimated that each farmer will be working to feed 17 Idahoans.

There will be little increase in total farm acreage in the state by 1960 and even by 1975, according to the NAM. "Farm acreage in the state in 1950 was 13,224,000; by 1960 it is expected to be 14,100,000, and by 1975, 14,800,000 acres."

The size of the average farm in Idaho should stay somewhat stable through the years, the NAM said. "In 1950, the average farm was 328.3 acres. It is expected that the 1960 average for Idaho farms will drop to 300 and climb to 340 acres by 1975."

The following table gives the 1950 farm population and number of farms in the state as well as 1960 and 1975 estimates:

	1950	1960	1975
Idaho population	588,637	717,000	724,000
Farm population	164,960	194,000	187,000
Farmers as per cent of total population	28%	27%	25.8%
Number of farms	40,284	44,100	43,500

The NAM pointed out that all 1960 and 1975 estimates are based on "high" estimates made by federal and state government agencies.

"The relative stability of the farm population indicates the burden that will be placed on the urban manufacturers in the coming decades," the NAM stated.

"With most of the new population of the state gathering in the cities, manufacturers have the responsibility of putting these jobs where they can be useful contributors to our society rather than wards of the government," the NAM pointed out.

The NAM went on: "It takes on the average of $12,000 to provide one job in industry, today. Thus, individuals and corporations alike will have to invest millions of dollars in coming years in Idaho business to provide these jobs."

So, the NAM summed it up, the responsibility lies like this: The city-manufacturer must provide jobs for the new Idahoans . . . and the farmer must feed them.

Woodworkers to Wait for Report

PORTLAND, Nov. 25 (AP)—The CIO Woodworkers have decided to wait for a verdict from the governors' panel before drawing up 1954 contract demands.

Flier Finds Specs In Middle of Field

MELBA, Nov. 25 (AP)—Some folks can't even find their glasses at home, but with Yale Holland, Nampa, it's different.

Holland was flying at 1,000 feet over a farm near here in the course of his duties with Amalgamated Sugar company.

Suddenly the door of his plane flew open and a rush of air whipped his glasses out the door.

Holland marked the location of the incident in his mind. He came back here by car, walked out into the field and picked up the lost spectacles. The lenses were not broken and the frames were only slightly damaged.

Idaho Couple Disputes Claim Of Texans for Long Marriage

EAGLE, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Benjamin Franklin Hartleys celebrated their 79th wedding anniversary yesterday and scoffed at other oldsters who claimed to be America's longest married couple.

"Why, they're just newlyweds," boomed the sprightly Hartley when told a Texas couple was believed to be the longest-married at 74 years.

Records show Drusilla Keith and Benjamin Hartley — now both 95 years old—were married in London county, Tenn., Nov. 24, 1878. They were born near Knoxville, Tenn., and grew up on adjoining farms where they were childhood chums and schoolmates.

"We played marbles together, ran races and even smacked each other," said the chipper Mrs. Hartley. "When we tell our youngsters about our courtship, they joke that we must have been a couple of crazy, mixed-up kids."

The "youngsters" are their sons James, 78, and Frank, 72, and Leo, 76.

After their marriage, they began housekeeping in a log cabin which had only candles and pine knots for lighting and a fireplace for heating and cooking.

"Housewives have it easy these days," says Mrs. Hartley. "I used a big iron oven with three legs and rings on the side. I could bake mighty fine salt-rising bread in it, but I never could make good biscuits."

She figures maybe she was "just born 50 years too soon."

Hartley recalls that both northern and southern armies fought in the area of his home when he was a child.

"Bullets used by both sides would be washed up from the soil by rain and would provide me with all the lead I needed to fix bullets for hunting," he said.

The Hartleys started west a few years after their marriage and stopped at Kuhsas. Later they settled down in western Kansas until the dustbowl days of the 30s. They came here in 1938.

They now have more than 100 descendants including several great-grandchildren. At present, they live here with their son, Leo.

The Hartleys can't understand why so many present-day marriages end so soon. "We wouldn't trade a minute of our marriage for anything," they agree.

That's because they have a good formula for a happy wedded life. "We knew better than to separate," Mrs. Hartley confided, "and besides we knew one another long enough to have our arguments over with before we were married."

Fine of Salesman Costs Town $1,000

BENWOOD, W. Va., Nov. 25 (AP)—Robert V. Kinney, Pittsburgh district sales manager for General Electric company, came here Tuesday night to pay a $10 fine for a minor traffic violation last week.

He paid the fine, then stopped in at a meeting of city council.

In no time at all, he sold the council a two-way radio for the police force.

One councilman said:

"Imagine that! This guy comes to town to pay us $10, and leaves with $1,000 of our money. I hope he doesn't get arrested here again. We can't afford it."

Tray Favors Made for Hospital

Tray Favors for Patients Are Project for Junior Red Cross

Patients at Magic Valley Memorial hospital will not be forgotten Thanksgiving day.

A number of special food tray favors were prepared for the hospital by members of the Washington School Junior Red Cross. Favors will be used to add a Thanksgiving note to the hospital.

The project is a minor phase of the year-around program of the Junior Red Cross, according to Mrs. Edwin C. Rathke, Twin Falls, Junior Red Cross chairman. Only the continued cooperation of area schools makes the program possible, she notes.

The program is designed to teach public service to participating students.

Schools from Murtaugh to Filer and as far south as Rogerson are included in the program. Favors are provided each holiday to the Magic Valley Memorial hospital and state hospitals.

Halloween favors were provided by members of the Lincoln Junior Red Cross. Bickel school will make the Christmas favors and schools in other towns will take over the task in January.

Both public and parochial schools are included in the program.

Magic Valley Memorial hospital is grateful for the holiday favors, reports Vernon Harris, assistant administrator. He commends all children groups who supply the hospital with the favors.

Court Rules Agency May Fix Charges

BOISE, Nov. 25 (AP)—An order of the state industrial accident board fixing hospital rates and charges in cases subject to the board's review was upheld Wednesday by the state supreme court.

The Idaho Hospital association, representing 11 hospitals, had protested the board's order, which places the hospitals in several classes and stipulates what fees they may charge for industrial accident cases.

The association pointed out that some of the fees are lower than the going rate for similar cases, and said the action was "arbitrary" and failed to take account of the hospitals' financial needs.

Justice Raymond L. Givens wrote in a unanimous opinion that the assurance of payments from patients in industrial accident rates would make up for the lower rates.

The board, Givens wrote, is "in a strategic position to judge . . . reasonable fees and charges" because of extensive hearings it has held and numerous cases it has handled.

Westerners Will Get Interior Jobs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—Westerners appear certain to hold a majority of the important subcommittee chairmanships on the house interior committee when the Democrats organize the 84th congress next January.

The full committee will be headed by another westerner, Representative Engle, D., Calif.

The committee now is set up with five subcommittees—public lands, irrigation and reclamation, territories and insular affairs, rivers and harbors, and Indian affairs.

Under practices of the interior committee, ranking members of the majority party are given their own choice of subcommittee chairmanships. The ranking Democrats now on the committee—excluding Engle—are Representatives Aspinall, D., Colo.; Donovan, D., N. Y.; O'Brien, D., N. Y.; Rogers, D., Tex., and Pfost, D., Ida.

It is good to read Whittier's poem this season and think back through history to the time of its writing. Then as now, it meant the return of the children with their children to the homestead. It meant the spiritual reunion as well as their physical presence for this was a day for giving thanks to whom thanks were due.

In those days this obligation was not forgotten. It was the first thought. Everybody who was able to walk, ride or be carried to church service was there. To give thanks to God for the blessings of the past year was the reason for the day and the first duty. The feasting came later in time and importance.

Dinner was truly a feast. The best of the harvest, the best of the kitchen could do with it, honored the occasion. Nothing was too good or too much to do in the honor of God and the family.

Grandfather piled the plates with slices of turkey. There were hills of golden turnips, mounds of stuffing that smelled divinely of thyme and sage, a drift of mashed potatoes threaded by rivulets of brown gravy. Waiting their turn were the side dishes of cranberry sauce, pickles, preserves, relishes of all sorts that were the pride of the house. The last plate served, heads bowed as Grandfather gave thanks. Then came the clatter of knives and forks against a silence of sweet content.

When the last fork was laid down and everybody had sunk back in his chair, Grandmother entered with the crown of the feast, the pumpkin pie. If you have ever eaten a pumpkin pie made by a New England cook you know what the sight and smell of it can do. It has a taste that lingers down the years bearing precious memories. Its perfume is something that will last while time lasts for you and be as exciting as on that first happy occasion. It is a Thanksgiving pie.

Most of us will have these gifts of the harvest of life and labor. Will we also have the reverence, the gratitude, the sense of obligation to God that the forefathers had? To the great Giver of all Good? Only in that spirit can we keep Thanksgiving in the American tradition.

Useful habits are the foundation for happy living and develop mind and character. Dr. Patri explains how to encourage your child to be helpful in Parents Magazine's "Helpful Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Mrs. A. C. Theis-Meyer, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Brown Resigns Twin Falls High Coaching Post

Harold Brown, head football and track coach at Twin Falls high school for the past four seasons, has tendered his resignation in a letter written to Ernest Ragland, superintendent of schools, it was announced Wednesday. Brown, whose Bruins finished last in the Big Six conference football race just ended, came here as head basketball and assistant football coach in the fall of 1950.

In 1951, with Brown at the helm the Bruins won the conference football title. During the 1951 season he served as both head football and head basketball coach.

This spring Brown will again coach the track squad. It will be his fifth season at the helm of that sport.

Ragland said Brown "probably would remain on the faculty as instructor in driver training and to direct intramural athletics or serve as an assistant coach."

Prior to coming to Twin Falls, Brown, a graduate of the Southern Idaho College of Education at Albion, coached at Paul and Hagerman.

Officially Brown's resignation will not be acted upon by the school board until its Dec. 11 meeting, Ragland said. "We deplore the fact that he (coach Brown) had such a rough go last season," the superintendent said.

"The board likes him fine as a man and we are happy he plans to remain on the faculty."

"Brown's resignation at this early date gives us (the board) the advantage of being able to thoroughly look over the field of possible candidates for the position," Ragland declared.

He indicated that it probably would be quite some time before A successor is named.

Brown was unavailable for comment.

HAROLD BROWN

Defense Mark In Coast Loop Set by Uclans

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25 (AP)—The UCLA Bruins, Pacific Coast conference football champions who scored 364 points against nine opponents, set a conference statistical record this season defensively.

Coach Red Sanders' undefeated and untied Uclans allowed opponents an average of just 73 yards rushing per game. They finished their 1954 slate by holding University of Southern California's vaunted ground attack to a puny five yards net.

Although Southern California, with 8 game remaining against Notre Dame, might improve some of the marks, UCLA heads the conference in every statistical department except pass offense and pass defense.

California's Paul Larson established another conference record by compiling a 61 per cent pass-accuracy record. He made 125 completions out of 195 attempts—also set a new national record.

UCLA leads the conference in total defense with 189.8 yards per game; total offense with 366.7 rushing, 286.4 kickoff returns 20.2 pass interception, 28, and punting 37.4.

Oregon heads the pass-defense department, limiting foes to an average of 91.9 yards per game.

Oregon's George Shaw leads the nation in total offense with 1,536 yards to 1,485 for Larson. Next comes Primo Villanueva of UCLA with 886.

UCLA fullback Bob Davenport and Oregon halfback Dick James share the scoring honors, each with 66 points.

Jim Hanifan, California end, posted the second-highest total in conference history to take the pass-receiving title with 569 yards on 44 receptions. He scored seven touchdowns. Bill Tarr, Stanford, topped the rushers with 729 yards. Jim Withrow, Oregon State, led in punting with 40.5.

Minor Attendance Is Off 6 Per Cent

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 25 (AP)—Minor league baseball attendance fell off almost 6 per cent this year from the 1953 figure, president George M. Trautman of the National association of Professional Baseball leagues said Wednesday.

Paid attendance for the 33 circuits which completed the campaign was 19,585,819, a drop of 1,218,773 from last year.

The "gate" for the first time since the war was under 20 million and showed a decline of more than 20 million in the last five years.

In 1949, when 59 leagues were in operation, the minors drew in excess of 41 million fans.

Trautman said he "viewed the minor league future with optimism tinged with some concern." He said the loss of three leagues which disbanded during the 1954 season, left 33 circuits intact. That was three times the number of the low mark in 1933 when only 11 leagues functioned.

Maxim Pounds Out Win Over Andrews

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Bloated and with one eye closed, old—pop Joey Maxim, 4 to 1 underdog, punched out a unanimous 10-round decision over little, inexperienced Paul Andrews in the Chicago stadium Wednesday night.

Maxim, his right eye puffed to closing in the very first round, outgamed and outmaneuvered an opponent eight years younger in a demonstration of gameness and ring savvy.

Maxim, ranked No. 2 contender for the light heavy crown he once wore, weighed 169½ pounds, while the 24-year-old Andrews, ranked No. 3, from Buffalo, N. Y., scaled 180.

Arkansas Football Coach Gets Raise

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 25 (AP)—The University of Arkansas Wednesday raised the salary of the coach of its Cotton Bowl-bound Razorbacks from $12,000 to $15,000 a year.

University President John T. Caldwell said he notified Bowden Wyatt of the increase, effective Jan. 1.

Wyatt came here two years ago from Wyoming. After a 3-7 first season at Arkansas last year, he this year fielded a football team which so far has a 7-2 record.

Brennan Is Week's Top Coach

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (U.P.)—His next big job is to make the Rose bowl folks even unhappier than they already are over the New Year's day game.

His boys are 14-point favorites Saturday, but he thinks they may have a bigger problem in beating the demoralized Southern California than they did last week in trouncing Iowa.

He's the United Press coach of the week, Terry Brennan of Notre Dame's Fighting Irish and by all odds he's the freshman coach of the year.

Wary Terry, the hand-picked 26-year-old boy wonder who succeeded the great Frank Leahy, took over his new job in an atmosphere of humility and caution. Great things had been predicted for Notre Dame but after an upset defeat by Purdue, the Irish were riding a rag-along team in the national rankings. They won, but not impressively, by such scores as 6-0 over Navy and 20-19 over Michigan State.

But quietly, Brennan was building a tremendous team. Apparently he never dreamed it would be as good as it is.

The Iowa game brought the Irish to their peak. Stung by charges last year that they faked injuries to gain a time out, Brennan said his main difficulty preceding the trip to Iowa City was to calm them down.

"We were keyed up early in the week, so ready, so jittery that we didn't want them to expand all their energy before the big game," he said. "So we planned our defense and offense to be as basic as possible in order that they would expend their energy the right way."

That "right way" use of energy paid off in a 24-18 revenge triumph over the Hawkeyes, giving Notre Dame a record of seven victories against that lone defeat in Brennan's first season.

But he gets a little concerned when he thinks about what he is facing the next two weeks.

"We are not sure we will be able to coast because Southern California and Southern Methodist both will be gunning for us," he said.

Of the two, he considers Southern California will be to win, first because of the fine old traditional rivalry, and second to build up Trojan football prestige to an even greater degree against the Pacific coast. Since twice-defeated Southern Cal is the Rose bowl representative against Ohio State, Notre Dame would like nothing better than to smack the Trojans down once more in advance of the New Year's day date.

Pro Rushing Lead Owned by Frisco Back

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25 (AP)—Joe Perry of the San Francisco 49ers has taken a commanding lead toward a second straight National Football league rushing crown.

Perry has gained 778 yards in nine games for an 86.4 average, according to statistics released by the league Wednesday.

His nearest competitor, Paul (Tank) Younger of the Los Angeles Rams, rode the ground last week but still has gained 610 yards.

The Rams' Norm Van Brocklin still leads the passers. He has averaged 10.15 yards per pass and has tossed for 10 touchdowns. Jack Scarbath of the Washington Redskins is second with an average gain of 8.7 yards.

Philadelphia's Bobby Walston, held scoreless by Cleveland last week, has a slim edge in scoring with 67 points, six more than Doak Walker of Detroit.

Pat Brady, Pittsburgh, and Tom Landry, New York, are tied for punting honors with 43.8-yard averages. Van Brocklin is close behind with 43.5.

Veryl Switzer, Green Bay, tops the punt return department with an average of 12.3 yards. Jack Christiansen, Detroit, is second with 10.8.

Flyweight Title Bout Is Postponed

TOKYO, Nov. 25 (AP)—A steady drizzle Thursday forced postponement until Friday night of the world's flyweight title fight between champion Yoshio Shirai of Japan and Pascual Perez of Argentina.

Temperatures had fallen into the 40s and a cold rain soaked Tokyo baseball park stadium, fight site throughout the afternoon.

Perez, a terrier from the Pampas, is seeking the first world crown ever by Argentina. He fought Shirai to a draw in a non-title fight last summer.

Bengal Cagers May Use Zone Defense

POCATELLO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Idaho State college may use a zone defense in its basketball games this season, coach Steve Belko said Wednesday.

The Bengals used only a man-to-man defense last season but Belko said a lack of height among his players this year may force use of the zone defenses.

Idaho State opens its season against Utah State Agricultural college next week.

WSC's Washington To Play for West

PULLMAN, Wash., Nov. 25 (AP)—Duke Washington, Washington State college halfback, has been invited to play for the West team in the East-West Shrine football game Jan. 1 in San Francisco, the school reported Tuesday.

Washington led the Pacific Coast conference in rushing yardage for six weeks before being injured in the WSC-Stanford game, and ended the season with a record of 626 total yards.

Independents May Form Grid Loop in East

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—After pussyfooting around in the shadow of the sacrosanct Ivy league until eastern football is just about dead on the vine, it appeared today as if the independents finally were going to organize a life-saving conference.

The independents have been playing "mean-nothing" schedules for years as they curried favor with the Ivy league for a few "handout" games. But the ever-increasing isolationist policy of the "Ivory Tower" circuit finally is forcing them to the wall.

Hopes for the oft-discussed Eastern conference appear brighter than ever now, however, with a statement by Syracuse athletic director Lowell Perry that its formation is "logical and inevitable" and the fullcloser that "work is being done toward such an end.

The big trouble to date is that nobody has stepped forward to carry the ball. A number of schools have expressed interest in the plan—such as Colgate, Boston university, Pitt, Penn State, Rutgers, Fordham and Villanova—but there simply wasn't a wheel horse.

The previous attempts at forming a conference bogged down because of plans which must have come out of an opium pipe. One such was an attempt to get Notre Dame along with Army and Navy into such a conference.

But it now seems about time to let the Ivy league go its way and realize that you simply can't have good, interesting football without a certain amount of commercialization.

Carroll Hardy Of Colorado Voted Honor

By The Associated Press

Carroll Hardy, the battering tailback of the University of Colorado, was named All-America here Wednesday by the Football Writers association of America.

Hardy, who was unbeaten in the regular season, was selected on the basis of his performance in the Buffaloes' 27-6 victory over Oklahoma in the Big Seven conference season finale.

A real triple-threater in this era of specialists, Hardy was the main instrument in knocking Kansas State from a chance to play in the Orange bowl. His Buffaloes whipped K-State 38-14 last Saturday as Hardy:

1. Scored three touchdowns.

2. Carried 10 times for 238 yards, better than his three-season average of 6.1.

3. Kicked one extra point.

4. Got off runs of 79 and 35 yards for two of his scores, and 49 yards which set up his third.

Had Kansas State turned back Colorado, the Wildcats would have tied Nebraska for second place in the Big Seven behind Oklahoma.

Since they beat the Cornhuskers earlier in the season, they would have gotten the Orange bowl nod. Oklahoma was ineligible, having played there last Jan. 1.

Legless Hunter Bags His Deer

WELLSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—Here's an encouraging note for all those cold, wet, hungry deer slayers who come home cold, wet, hungry and deerless:

Charles H. Lambert, legless veteran of World war II, got his from a wheelchair.

Lambert drove out to the country in his automobile which is specially equipped for operation without foot pedals. He hauled out his folding wheelchair, rolled himself a few feet into a cleared area in a small orchard, and waited.

Presently a 150-pound, six-point buck came along. Result: Venison in the Lambert freezer.

Western State Places 4 on All-Loop Team

DENVER, Nov. 25 (AP)—Western State college, the No. 1 team in the standings, led the 1954 United Press all-Rocky Mountain conference team selections with four players.

The all-conference team, selected by the RMC's coaches, listed players from only four of the six schools. Champion Montana State placed three and Colorado Mines and Idaho State each captured two spots.

Again this year, as last, Western State's flashy halfback, Bill Rhodes, was a unanimous choice. Rhodes, a sophomore, was the only unanimous selection.

Close behind Rhodes, and lacking only one vote for unanimous choice was Larry Kreitzenburg, Idaho State's senior quarterback.

Other top vote-getters were end Austin Pehr, Colorado Mines; tackle Howard Green, Idaho State; guard Ray Schoessler, Montana State, and fullback Don Edwards, Montana State.

Rhodes, Green and Schoessler were the only repeaters from the 1953 team, as Idaho State's Larry Kent and Doran (Bus) Connor dropped to honorable mention, and Ted Wennerstrom, an all-conference end at Western State, fell to a tackle spot on the second team, and guard Vic Perez, Montana State, a top selection last year, wasn't mentioned.

Montana State placed five players on the second team.

Plastic-Coated Tenpin Approved

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 25 (AP)—The American Bowling congress announces it has approved the first plastic-coated tenpin in bowling history.

The ABC spokesman said the formula, developed by Henry W. Moore, Omaha, Nebr., a former cattle rancher, would "easily double the life of a bowling pin."

The plastic coating, the ABC said, will have no effect on the scoreability of a pin but will maintain its outer dimensions for a much longer time. An all-wood pin compresses at the ball line, the congress explained, and becomes knocked out of shape after prolonged use.

Twin Falls Fails to Place Any All-Big-Six Conference Grid T

By The Associated Press

A high-scoring Nampa halfback and a hard-tackling Caldwell lineman were named Wednesday as the outstanding players on the Associated Press 1954 all-Big Six football team.

Sportswriters in league cities named as the top back Jack Acree, 150-pound senior, who scored 36 points in conference play to win the scoring crown, and stood out on defense for the champion Bulldogs.

They chose Lloyd Taylor, right tackle for the Cougars and anchor man of the line, as the top lineman.

Nampa, which was unbeaten in the league, placed five players on the team; runner-up Caldwell three; third place Pocatello one, and Boise two. Idaho Falls, which tied Boise for fourth, and Twin Falls, which finished last, are unrepresented.

Mike Caylor, 240-pound Caldwell senior and a member of last year's all-star team, also was a unanimous choice for left guard.

For quarterback, Sid Garber, Caldwell, second - ranking scorer, edged out Gary Farnsworth, Nampa, who placed second in close balloting.

Fred Corey, Nampa, was a narrow choice for the fullback spot over Leon Molinelli, a converted Pocatello lineman who racked up 32 points to tie for second in the league scoring.

All but one of the writers agreed on Dick Hancock, Boise, for the right halfback spot.

Fred Towery, Nampa, was an almost unanimous choice for left end as was Corky Hill, 154-pound Nampa senior, for center.

Molinelli, Linde and Hancock were among those getting one vote each for outstanding player.

Those receiving one or more first-place votes were: Bob Drake, Boise; Bob Montgomery, Nampa, and Russell Jeffrey, Idaho Falls, tackle; Ernst, end; Larry Wendell, Boise, Dick Skinner, Nampa, and Bob Reid, Nampa, guards; Porg, Idaho Falls, center; Frank Fiorentino, Idaho Falls, and Tom Reever, Pocatello, halfbacks; Farnsworth, quarterback, and Molinelli, fullback.

Others who received second-place votes were Rolly Ledge, Caldwell, and Ray Hart, Idaho Falls, ends; Norm Davis, Caldwell, Gene Brock, Nampa, and Dennis Baker, Nampa, tackles; Dick Bolscheid, Pocatello, Dick Skinner, Idaho Falls, Bob Britton, Caldwell, Knye Craven, Pocatello, and Davis, Caldwell, guards; Ashley Caldwell, Buhl, Burma, Caldwell, Ron Tolley, Pocatello, and John Freeman, Boise, centers; Troyce Vance, Caldwell, halfback, and Gary Miller, Idaho Falls, fullback.

Waldorf's team lost to USC, Ohio State and UCLA, this season.

Offer Appears To Confirm Rumor of Move

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 25 (AP)—Red Bird stadium, home of the Columbus club of the triple-A American association, was offered for sale Wednesday to the city of Columbus by the St. Louis Cardinals, owner of the Columbus club. The price was set at $550,000.

The offer to sell appeared to confirm recent reports St. Louis is ready to pull its American association franchise out of Columbus.

Columbus Dispatch sports editor Brad Willson said Anheuser-Busch interests seemed agreeable to a clause in the option agreement which would make the sale contingent upon Columbus obtaining a triple-A baseball club in the future.

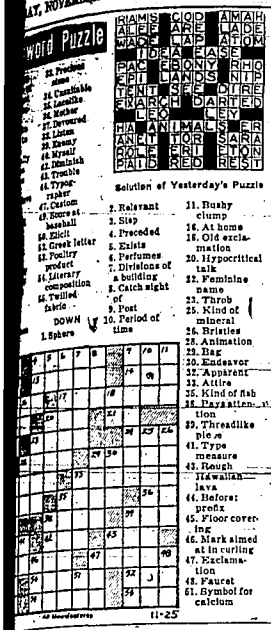

This could be the former Kansas City Blues. The New York Yankees, owner of the Kansas City franchise in the association, must find a new home for that club because the area while Philadelphia Athletics have moved in and made a major league town of Kansas City.

The present Madison Square garden, famous New York sports arena, was opened Dec. 15, 1925.

Ex-Aide of Ike Making Study

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—The White House said yesterday that former budget director Joseph M. Dodge is making a general study for President Eisenhower of organization, coordination and development of foreign economic policy.

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said Dodge has been at work on the study for the past two months and has conferred with Eisenhower.

The conclusions Dodge submits to Eisenhower probably will be incorporated in the President's state of the union message to the new congress convening in January.

Hagerty said he wanted to stress that Dodge's work deals primarily with the organization aspects of foreign economic policy.

"He is not forming policy," Hagerty said.
